(San Dimas, CA, USA) Tzu Chi volunteer attends NGO meetings in Haiti. Tzu Chi will provide immediate, mid-term and long-term relief in Haiti. First phase of fundraising has begun in 15 countries.

It is the 5th day after the devastating earthquake struck Haiti. A Tzu Chi volunteer in Haiti, Steeve, who previously helped with Tzu Chi's 2009 relief efforts in Port-au-Prince and Cité Soleil, has been in contact with the Tzu Chi Emergency Coordination Center in San Dimas on a daily basis. Steeve is representing Tzu Chi at NGO meetings in Haiti, discussing how the NGOs can collaborate to provide relief.

Steeve lives an hour away from the US embassy in Port-au-Prince. His two cousins were killed by the earthquake, and his uncle is missing. According to Steeve, UN is the only organization conducting aid distribution in the city center, and there are riots in the city center. When driving from his house to the city center, he could see that a majority of the buildings have collapsed, with bodies lying on the streets and some bodies thrown into a big hole on the ground. Many survivors were out on the streets because an aftershock was felt at approximately 2pm Pacific time on Saturday afternoon.

Tzu Chi Emergency Coordination Center is sending a team of volunteers from the US to assist with the operations in the Tzu Chi Emergency Communication Center in the Dominican Republic. The Emergency Communication Center has two focuses: 1) set up task forces in the Dominican Republic to compile news from Haiti, interact with the government officials, contact volunteers in Haiti, and integrate resources and manpower; 2) support Steeve and other volunteers in Haiti, with the goal of recruiting more volunteers in Haiti and inspiring their hope and love to help one another.

Tzu Chi has extensive disaster relief experience, providing immediate, mid-term and long-term relief. Based on prior experiences, besides providing relief goods and medical aids, the most urgent task after the initial rescue efforts is to clean up the disaster areas to ensure a sanitary environment and prevent the spread of epidemics. After Typhoon Morakot and Typhoon Ketsana struck Asia in 2009, Tzu Chi volunteers initiated a relief work program to pay the survivors wages to help clean their own hometown. For example, the city of Marikina in the Philippines was severely flooded due to Typhoon Ketsana; Tzu Chi volunteers and 80,000 relief workers/survivors cleaned up the entire city in just 18 days, preventing the spread of epidemics. The relief work program not only provided financial assistance, it also provided hope, love and a sense of purpose to the survivors.

Tzu Chi's nationwide fundraising campaign has begun as of January 16. In Southern California alone, Tzu Chi volunteers have held street fundraisers in 23 locations. At the fundraising locations, people can see Tzu Chi volunteers with 90 degree bows and gentle smiles, doing all they can to raise money for the survivors in Haiti. Tzu Chi volunteers hope to accumulate the
