

Working Together to Mitigate Disasters

Everyone in this world is one big family; we are all interconnected. As we witness disharmony and natural disasters in the world, we must not think that we are far removed. We must engage in great repentance; we must all change the way we think, speak, and act if we wish to make the world a better place.

Loving reminders from Tzu Chi